

Khrushchev III, Has to Delay Visit to France

BY STANLEY JOHNSON
MOSCOW (AP)—March 23 has been agreed upon as the new date for Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to visit France, the Soviet news agency Tass announced today. The visit will continue until April 3.

Khrushchev originally had planned to start his visit Sunday, but it was announced he was forced to postpone it over the weekend because of an attack of influenza.

The new schedule cuts the French visit to 12 days. He originally had planned to spend 14, but some adjustment had been expected in view of the tight schedule of French President Charles de Gaulle this spring.

De Gaulle will begin a four-day state visit to Britain April 5, only two days after Khrushchev leaves. De Gaulle will go to the United States April 19.

The prompt announcement of a new date for the visit dissolved speculation that he might be suffering from a "diplomatic illness." Diplomats here had scoffed at this speculation all along, saying he was eager for the presidential talks with De Gaulle.

PSC Hearing AP&L Appeal for Increase

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Public Service Commission today opened a hearing on an application of Arkansas Power & Light Co. for a rate increase of some $666,000 a year to the state's 14 rural electric co-operatives.

The co-ops are protesting the proposal. AP&L sells electric power to the co-ops for resale to their members.

Last year the co-ops bought about $1,266,000 worth of power from AP&L.

If the requested new rate had been in effect, the total would have been about $1,932,000.

R. E. Ritchie, president of AP&L, said his company had tried to negotiate new contracts with each of the co-ops last summer but that "we didn't get very far."

Contracts begin to expire this year.

Under present rates, AP&L's charges to the co-ops vary from 4.61 to 5.32 mills per kilowatt hour.

The proposed new rates would range from 6.67 to 9.4 mills, depending on the amount of power delivered.

Schools Must Make Up for Closings

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The state Education Department estimates that 50 northwest Arkansas schools will have to make up class days lost because of weather-forced closings.

The Department said some other schools in the state missed a few days due to weather, but that their plight was less serious than that of the northwest Arkansas schools.

Curtis Swalm, supervisor for northwest Arkansas, said some schools are considering Saturday classes for makeups. An alternative, he said, would be to add days at the end of the term.

Schools are required to have 172 days of classes each year to qualify for full state aid. Some in the northwest lost up to 14 days.

Swalm listed Harrison, Clarksville, Fayetteville and Mountain Home as among the larger districts affected.

Many Hempstead Herds Must Be Retested for Bangs If County Is to Keep Rating

Hempstead county cattle owners tested their cattle for Bang's disease and the county was placed on a Modified-Certified Bang's Free Area in 1957 according to County Agent Calvin Caldwell. In order for hempstead to retain this Modified-Certified Bang's Free rating a certain number of the cattle herds in the county have to be retested every three years.

Dr. H. R. Shay, Area Veterinarian in charge of Bangs testing, advised the Agricultural Extension office that Hempstead county is now due to be recertified. According to Dr. Shay this will mean that 20% of the total number of cattle herds in the county plus those herds that were infected with Bangs disease at the time of certification will have to be tested before Oct. 15, 1960, in order to recertify the county.

Cattle that have been tested since the county was certified will count toward recertification. A list of these cattle herds is kept in the county agent's office and anyone wishing information concerning the status of his herd may call PR 7-2411. Herds tested during the recertification will not have to be tested the next time the county comes up for recertification.

Crews to do the testing are available and request for this work should be turned in to the county agent. Any heifer calves that are 4 to 8 months old will be vaccinated at the time the testing is done. Good cooperation from cattle owners will insure getting most of this work done before the heavy crop season.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has granted the Missouri Pacific permission to discontinue its passenger service between Pleasant Hill, Mo., and Newport, Ark.

Winter Gets Another Lick at Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snow fell in a wide area of northern and middle Arkansas today as winter let go with another punch.

The forecast predicted snow accumulations of two or three inches in higher elevations of the north and the chance of light sleet and snow flurries in central and South Arkansas.

Sleet accompanied the fresh snowfalls in a number of areas.

Hardest hit in the new wave of bad weather was northwest section, where snow fell steadily this morning.

The snow extended southward below Little Rock, which caught a light fall. Little Rock's snow was followed by rain.

At Fayetteville, the snow was reported by newsman to be "so thick you couldn't see buildings half a block away." At the time of this report, an estimated half inch of snow had poured down on the area.

Snow mixed with rain was in the outlook for north Arkansas, while the general forecast called for occasional rain and scattered thundershowers through tomorrow.

Highs today are expected to range from the upper 30s to upper 40s, with lows tonight in the 20s. Cold temperatures are due again tomorrow.

The U. S. Weather Bureau at Little Rock said the snow apparently was confined to northern, western and central Arkansas.

At mid-morning, the snow line had extended as far east as Batesville which had light snow and sleet.

Rogers, Springdale, Harrison and other northwest Arkansas points reported it was snowing hard at mid-morning. Depth of new snow was estimated at more than one inch.

Fayetteville had a light snowfall. Fort Smith, Waldron, Ozark and Russellville reported sleet and light snow.

Other snow reports came from Searcy, Clinton and DeQueen. The Weather Bureau said the Pine Bluff area, which caught light snow yesterday, had a mixture of light rain, sleet and snow today.

The Arkansas Highway Department had no reports of road closings. Nor were there any reports of school shutdowns.

Minimum temperatures today ranged from 27 at Gilbert to 39 at Texarkana. Highs yesterday varied from 46 at Little Rock and Pine Bluff to 56 at Arkadelphia.

Information relayed back from the spheres is being accumulated in tape form to be analyzed later by space scientists.

Shriners of Hope Hear Potentate

"The meaning and true purpose of the fraternity of Shriners throughout the world is to help crippled children everywhere, regardless of race, color or creed, and to foster clean fun and good fellowship," Dr. Gordon P. Gates, Potentate of the Scimitar Shrine Temple, explained to a group of 62 at the monthly social of the Hope Shrine Club, last week at the VFW Hut.

Shriners, their wives and guests enjoyed a delicious dinner served buffet style. To carry out an Irish theme bells of Ireland, Shamrocks and daffodils decorated the head table. Out-of-town guests included Dr. and Mrs. Oates of Little Rock, Harold Arnett of Baton Rouge, La. and Frank Kerr of New Orleans, La.

Critical Stage in Effort to Rescue Miners

LOGAN, W. Va. (AP)—Workmen striving to reach 18 trapped miners had a new approach today to where the men are believed holed up, and the rescue chief said, "We're at the critical stage now."

Crawford L. Wilson, state mines director, said a new fresh air line had been set up and converged with the first one.

"These lines of approach are certain and safely supported," said Wilson as he spoke to newsmen after a conference with officials of Island Creek Coal Co.

One rescue team had reached almost within shouting distance—15 feet—of their target deep behind the tunnel which has been clogged with a smoldering fire and slate fall since last Tuesday morning. But rescuers have had to return for fresh oxygen supplies time and again.

Fate of the men who were trapped six days ago remains as shrouded as the smoke and gas-clogged air. However, rescuers believe they had time to barricade themselves off with heavy canvas.

Wilson, veteran mine official who was celebrating his 66th birthday today, walked briskly and was in good spirits as he arrived from an overnight stay in Holden.

He explained that work teams have fought their way through tunnels 7 and 8 and the honeycomb passageways between them. The new fresh air passage through these tunnels has linked with the main rescue attempt up tunnel 4.

The entombed men are believed in an area off 7 and 8, which also can be reached from the No. 4 tunnel.

Earlier, one workman described the tremendous obstacles in the way of the rescuers.

"That smoke is so thick down there you can stick out your finger and punch a hole in it," said Elmer Layne, 37-year-old rescue team captain just up from the black depths.

Declares South Senators Still Fighting War

WASHINGTON (AP)—George Meany said today the main body of Southern senators who are opposing civil rights legislation "are still fighting the Civil War."

"They refuse to acknowledge the sovereignty of the Constitution to which they have sworn allegiance," the president of the AFL-CIO said in an address prepared for the 6th national legislative conference of the Building and Construction Trades Department of the AFL-CIO.

Meany asked Congress to pass effective civil rights legislation without further delay. He called on any unions still practicing discrimination to clean their own houses.

He said the filibuster against the civil rights bill "attacks human rights. It is aimed at stopping a clear majority of the Senate from carrying out the constitutional guarantee that every American citizen, regardless of race or color, shall have the right to vote."

"Some of the opponents of civil rights bill," Meany said, "are honorable men who have unhappily been forced into an indefensible position by the political dynamite which hangs over their heads in their home states. But the main body of Southerners who have engineered and are determined to carry on this filibuster are still fighting the Civil War."

"States rights diabolists are out of today and tomorrow," he said. "In a very real sense, they are doing irreparable damage to the country they profess to love."

"Labor cannot, in good conscience urge Congress to act against discrimination when some of our own affiliated groups themselves are guilty of practicing discrimination," Meany said.

"It is up to local union leaders to convince their members to listen to reason. It is up to international union presidents to exert effective leadership on this question to reason. It is up to international union presidents to exert effective leadership on this question. We have got to find a solution for it based on sound trade union principles."

Mrs. Hamm, who was introduced by Mrs. Paul Klipsch, spoke enthusiastically of the friendliness and generosity of the citizens of our new state and their eagerness for knowledge and education. She also exploded the general belief of where there are Eskimos there are igloos, the latter being in almost total absence. An added attraction was Mrs. Hamm's display of raw jade, raw gold, jewelry of various teeth and jewelry set with polished jade, gold nuggets and black diamonds which are all products of Alaska.

All Around Town

THE BUSHWHACKERS

by FRANK GRUBER

CHAPTER XIX

In Pawnee City they went to the bank where Shay introduced himself to Josh Chandler, the banker. While they discussed their business, Bokker got some paper from the teller and wrote out a bill of sale in duplicate.

When Shay finished his business with the banker, Bokker handed him the bills of sale.

"Here," said Shay, "here's your fee." He tried to thrust a double eagle on Bokker.

Bokker shook his head. "Forget it, Paul."

"No," said Shay, "it's got to be strictly business between us."

Bokker hesitated. "All right, but a dollar's enough."

"The best lawyer," said Shay, "is the one who charges the highest fees. Five for making out a bill of sale is little enough."

Bokker accepted $5.

"They left the bank and met Ruth Compton crossing the sidewalk to climb the three-stair flight of steps into the bank."

"I'm in business," she said. "I've bought a half interest in Mrs. Melcher's Bon Ton Millinery Shop."

"That's great," enthused Paul Shay, "but it's no good unless Paul draws up your contract."

Ruth smiled brightly at Bokker. "I was going to ask if you'd mind making out some kind of paper."

"I'll go with you to Mrs. Melcher's right now."

"I'll meet you there in 10 minutes. I've got to cash a bank draft first."

"Good," said Bokker.

"I made a little business deal myself," said Shay. "Breakfast is on me. Suppose we all get together at the restaurant in a half hour."

Shay went off to return the horses to the livery stable where he had rented them. Bokker returned to the hotel and waited some 10 minutes in the lobby, then strolled to Mrs. Melcher's Bon Ton Millinery Shop.

Mrs. Melcher was a stout, red-headed woman, crowding 40. The store contained a modest assortment of hats, most of them gaudy creations of velvet, satin and silk. Ruth Compton had apparently just entered the store and was counting out bills onto the counter.

She stopped to introduce Bokker. "Mrs. Melcher, this is Mr. Bokker. He's agreed to draw up a contract."

"A simple partnership agreement," Bokker corrected.

Mrs. Melcher regarded Bokker dubiously. "I didn't think we needed lawyers in this."

"It's always best to have a lawyer draw up business papers," Bokker said. "A contract protects both parties."

Mrs. Melcher hesitated. "How much'll it cost me?"

"Nothing, Mrs. Melcher," Ruth said quickly.

"I'm representing Miss Compton," Bokker went on. "I think, therefore, that you ought to have your own attorney, Mrs. Melcher."

"Isn't the county prosecutor also engaged in private practice?"

"Mike Huntley," Mrs. Melcher sniffed. "I wouldn't trust him to make out nothing. Spends most of his time in the saloons, playing cards." She looked at Bokker suspiciously. "When do I get my money?"

"I've already counted it out," Mrs. Melcher said. "Here it is, $500."

"For half of the business?"

"That's right."

With the money actually in her hands, Mrs. Melcher got pen and paper and Bokker seated himself at the counter and wrote out a simple partnership agreement. Mrs. Melcher read it twice and was still reluctant to sign it but finally did so.

"Well, Miss Compton," Bokker said then, "you're in business."

"And so are you," Ruth Compton said. "I'd like to pay you your fee."

Bokker hesitated. "Very well, then, I'll charge you the same as I charged Paul Shay for making out his bill of sale — $5."

She paid him the money. "Now let's have breakfast with Paul," Bokker hesitated. "I've had my breakfast."

She looked at him sharply, but made no comment until they were out of the millinery shop. Then she said, "What's happened between you and Paul?"

"Nothing," Bokker replied a little too quickly. "It's just — well, if I'm going to hang out my shingle here in Pawnee City, I think I'd better look around for office space."

She nodded. "Very well."

He watched her start across the street, then turned back toward the hotel. In the lobby, he found the hotel proprietor, Joe Wilkins, scowling over his register. "Morning, sir," he greeted Bokker. "I'm just looking over the room coming in either today or tomorrow and I've got a couple of telephone reservations for rooms. Oh — could you tell me how long you expect to keep your room?"

"I couldn't say," Bokker replied. "You see, I'm thinking of settling in Pawnee City for a while."

Joe Wilkins looked at Bokker narrowly. "What for? You're not a gambler?"

"No, I'm a lawyer," said Bokker.

"But we got a lawyer in this town."

Bokker shrugged. "Perhaps there's enough legal business in Pawnee City for two lawyers to make a living."

"Mike Huntley don't have enough to keep him busy?"

Truce Called at Fishing Grounds

LONDON (AP) — British travelers hauled up their nets and steamed away from the coast of Iceland today to begin a month's truce in the fish war they have been fighting since 1958.

By midnight there will be no British trawlers on the rich fishing grounds they claim to have pioneered more than 70 years ago.

With them will go the warships which have been on protective patrol since Iceland extended her fishing limits to 12 miles on Sept. 1, 1958, and ordered foreign fishermen to stay outside. The British stuck to the old three-mile limit.

The British Trawlers' Federation has decided to withdraw their vessels to ensure that no incidents develop during the law-of-the-sea conference opening in Geneva Thursday.

Castro Warns His Enemies He Is Strong

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro warned his enemies today that Cuba's revolutionary army is stronger than the Algerian nationalists who are holding off a French force of half a million.

But, he told a cheering crowd, the amount his government is spending for arms "should be of no one's concern. What is important is that the bulk of the revolution's resources have not been invested in arms but in tractors and machinery."

The fiery Prime Minister delivered a rambling, post-midnight speech at a University of Havana ceremony in memory of the students killed in an abortive attempt to assassinate ex-President Fulgencio Batista three years ago.

Castro's reference to his fighting force appeared in reaction to a recent New York Times report that Cuba spent 120 million dollars in foreign exchange for arms last year.

"If we buy arms, it is the fault of aggressors and their allies," he said. "Without enemies there would be no need for arms which we need to defend ourselves. We don't obtain arms to attack anyone."

Then, with marked bitterness, he struck out at "economic threats, military maneuvers, calumnies and bombardments" — ap-

Walks Length of England for $2,800

LAND'S END, England (AP) — A little glass packer went back to work today after winning an 891-mile foot race on a diet of cigarettes, candy and snacks.

"It fitted nicely into my two-week vacation," 6-foot-3 Jimmy Musgrave, 38, told newsmen as he jogged into town Sunday after covering the length of Britain in 15 days 14 hours, 32 minutes. He beat a field of nearly 700 and won $2,800.

"None of my pals thought I could do it," the Yorkshireman said. "It will be nice to get back to work at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning and tell them at the factory that the joke's on them."

Musgrave finished 90 minutes ahead of John Grundy, 26, a married athlete runner who came in with a bad limp and collected $1,400, the long and difficult.

At one point he said proposed out from John o' Groats, on Scotland, changes in the U.S. sugar act land's northern tip, Feb. 27. The were being designed to "kill us field had narrowed to less than without limitation the economic 200 as the stragglers began trail by hunger" and "arbitrarily placing into Lands End. Violence in State Brings Death to 13

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thirteen persons died violently in Arkansas during the week ending at midnight yesterday.

Four died in fires, three by accidental electrocution, and two each in traffic accidents, shootings, and by drowning.

Richard Preston Quick, 48, was shot to death by State Police on Highway 70 east of Little Rock Saturday when he threatened a shootout after a high-speed automobile chase.

Quick, an ex-convict, had been released from a Texas prison two days earlier.

Clay Orr, 37, of Hardy, died yesterday after having been shot Friday night at a real estate subdivision at which he was a salesman. Earl Mason Masterson, 26, of Hardy, a nightwatchman at the subdivision, was held on an open charge.

A Helena businessman and a Helena high school student were killed Saturday in unrelated but similar accidents. Both were thrown from their cars, then crushed under them. The victims were Charles E. Griffin, 24 and William Mangum, 16.

Presidential Vote Today in Korea

By C. S. CHIN

SEOUL, South Korea, (AP) — South Korea's tense presidential election campaign closed today with tough old President Syngman Rhee unopposed for a fourth year term and his vice presidential running mate, Lee Ki-poong, favored to unseat incumbent John Chang.

Balloting at 8,100 polling places begins at 7 a.m. Tuesday. Conclusive results are expected by noon Wednesday.

Rhee, 84, who heads the Liberal party, needs only approval by one-third of the 11,196,490 registered voters to qualify. His only opponent, Chong Pyong-ok of the Democratic party, died following stomach surgery in Washington, D.C., in February. Rhee's government refused postponement of the election so the Democrats could nominate another candidate.

The remaining Democratic candidate, Chang, 60, defeated Lee, 63, for the vice presidency in 1955.

But Chong's death seemed to rob the Democratic campaign of much of its momentum, and Lee is expected to win this time.

Two other vice presidential candidates from splinter parties are given no chance.

Rhee's re-election was considered a certainty, even before Chong died. But the vice presidential race is of major importance since the president will be 85 on March 26.

Settlement Hopeful in Guild Strike

AP Movie-TV Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ronald Reagan, presiding over a union meeting uncommon in labor history, Sunday night told 4,000 cheering members of the Screen Actors Guild that there is hope of early settlement of the actor's strike.

"We (actors and producers), finally are talking to each other, not about each other," Reagan said.

Many of the rank-and-file workers showed up in big limousines and some of the women wore full-length mink coats.

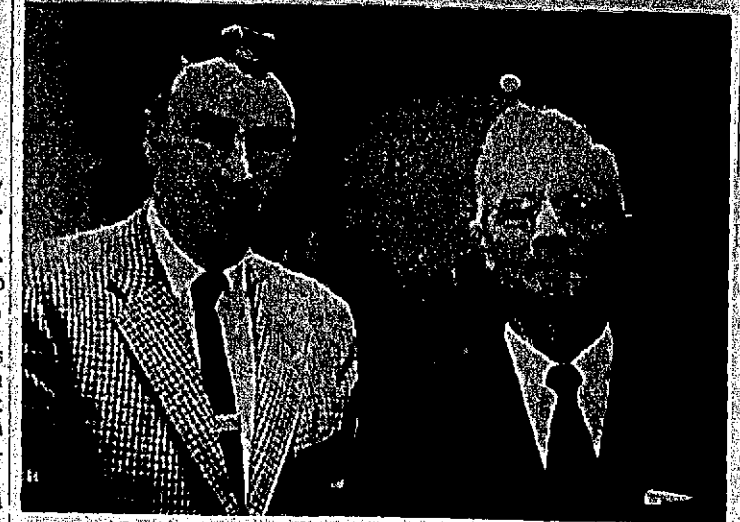

On a motion by Walter Anderson, the SAG board was given a standing vote of confidence in its battle with the seven major studios over the sale of post-1948 films to television.

Reagan detailed the history of the negotiations with the studios and commented that the producers had refused to discuss the major issue until the actors called the strike last Monday.

"We found ourselves in the unique position of negotiating for the right of negotiation," Reagan said.

Reagan said the producers and the actors will meet again Tuesday.

$200,000 to Help Reopen Spa Hospital

By GORDON BROWN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mary E. Switzer, head of the Office of Vocational Rehabilitation, has told Congress that under present law $200,000, and no more, will be provided to help Arkansas transform the old Army-Navy Hospital at Hot Springs into a vocational rehabilitation center.

Congress last year authorized transfer of the hospital to the state and voted $200,000 to remain available until spent to help convert the facility.

The Army plans to turn the hospital over to Arkansas April 1, it announced last week.

In testimony to the House Appropriations Committee — made public today — Miss Switzer said that her office is asking no additional funds for the transitional move for the year starting next July 1.

"We intend to advise the state agency that the $200,000 already appropriated represents the total and final amount to be made available from this office, and that no further special financing will be made available by this office unless Congress provides funds specifically for this purpose," she said.

In other words, an aide to Miss Switzer said later, present law limits the amount of transitional money to $200,000 and there can be no increase unless Congress acts.

However, he said, this does not mean that the Hot Springs center will not receive allotments, along with other vocational rehabilitation agencies, from other funds regularly appropriated to the office.

Miss Switzer told the committee that the state plan for conversion of the hospital "calls for the expenditure of the $200,000 by December of 1961."

"I want to make it clear," she said, "that as far as we are concerned we feel that the mandate of the Congress was quite definite and so there are no funds in this 1961 estimate that are contemplated to go to the Hot Springs project for . . . the general maintenance of the project.

"According to the plans for the state of Arkansas they will need additional money from some source, and we hope, of course, that the patients from the other states and other income will give them what they need," she said.

Faubus May Announce His Plans

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Will Gov. Orval E. Faubus announce his political plans this week?

Faubus has said he would disclose his plans around March 15 but stressed this was an approximate date.

He is expected to seek an unprecedented fourth term as governor. Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett is the only gubernatorial candidate so far.

Faubus today opened his week's schedule of speaking engagements at the dedication of a state Education Department warehouse at Camp Robinson.

Tomorrow he has three engagements at Pine Bluff: A luncheon with Legislative Council members, dedication of a dormitory at the Arkansas Boys Industrial School, and a talk to the Business and Professional Women's Club.

Wednesday he will speak to the Hamburg Rotary Club, and Thursday to the Osceola Kiwanis Club.

Faubus is to address an Arkansas School Fire Marshals Assn. meeting at Camp Robinson Friday.

Money Donated Go State Colleges

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The American Oil Company Foundation of New York City has donated $1,000 to the Arkansas Foundation of Associated Colleges.

The gift was obtained through H. A. Heiss, plant manager of Amoco's refinery at El Dorado.

L. W. Moore, president of the Amoco Foundation, said in transferring the gift that the company was distributing $13,000 to private and so there are no funds in this 1961 estimate that are contemplated to go to the Hot Springs project for . . . the general main-

Integration Not Harmful, Report Says

ATLANTA (AP)—Desegregation of public schools has not lowered academic standards or harmed the academic progress of white pupils, according to two reports released by the Biracial Southern Regional Council.

One report, "Desegregation and Academic Achievement," summarized the testimony of 12 administrators of desegregated school systems before the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights.

The other, "Racial Differences in Academic Achievement," analyzed findings of tests conducted in the public school systems of Atlanta and Washington, D. C.

The report on the Atlanta school system said statistics indicated that:

1. There are more superior students among white pupils than among Negroes.

2. Roughly half of the white pupils and Negro pupils are about equal in achievement.

3. A few Negro elementary schools showed higher averages than some white schools.

4. The higher the grade the greater the difference in achievement between white pupils and Negroes in a segregated system.

Conclusions based on the study of schools in Washington since they were integrated included:

1. Citywide testing showed academic achievement rose at every grade level tested in every school tested.

2. The delinquency rate for Negroes dropped.

Board to Pay Legal Fees for Dollarway

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Education Board moved today to reimburse the Dollarway School District for $5,000 in legal fees spent in opposing integration.

The reimbursement motion was made at a board meeting by chairman Marvin Bird of Earle. It was approved unanimously by the other four members present, a bare quorum for the nine-member group.

Bird said the Arkansas Legislature had set aside $100,000 to help school districts pay for legal work in opposing any court order for racially mixed classes.

He said Dollarway showed a $30,800 surplus but $19,000 of this was in school debt service and another $2,000 in a teacher salary fund.

"This left about $9,000 in the surplus," Bird said, "but in addition to the $5,000 (the amount of reimbursement), Dollarway has paid out another $3,500 in legal fees."

The chairman said Dollarway expects to shed still another $5,000 above this total of $8,500 in costs.

Bird said the Legislature provided money to help districts in need "and I think Dollarway falls in that category."

Three Negro students have fought a lengthy court battle in an effort to integrate the all-white Dollarway School near Pine Bluff.

So far they have been unsuccessful. Appeal action still is pending in federal courts.

Dollarway asked last June for monetary assistance in legal fees. At that time the Education Board said it would take the request under advisement while deciding whether the school district could be classed as needy.

"I look on what they (Dollarway) are doing as of just as much concern to the Earle School District or any other in the state as their own," Bird said.

He added that he thought Dollarway's procedure "in taking every-

DOROTHY DIX

All In a Point of View

By DOROTHY DIX

This is the second Sunday in Lent. According to the dictionary, Lent means the coming of spring. In the ecclesiastical sense, the word is peculiar to the Christian world. It commemorates our Lord's 40 days in the wilderness and is a period of fasting, prayer and repentance.

Having been born and reared in the Episcopal religion, I questioned the first version — at least I did until, out of a clear sky, came an invitation from some friends in Florence. "Come for Lent and stay through Easter," they wrote.

I arrived late on the eve of Ash Wednesday. "There is a charming little Episcopal church here," said my host next morning. "Since that's your faith, go there first. Then —" he paused, "I suggest a walk to Fiesole. It's only a few miles." He indicated the road on a map.

"Why Fiesole?" I asked.

"It illustrates my favorite definition of Lent," he said cryptically.

Black cloth shrouded the altar at the Episcopal church. I knelt in prayer while the rector dabbed my forehead with ashes, sat in meditation the accepted length of time, then started for Fiesole. The sunshine was golden, the sky turquoise blue and the soft, warm air carried with it the fragrance of wisteria blossoms. I thought of the motto of Florence's Lorenzini de Medici — "Spring will come again."

It had come — on the road to Fiesole. There spring was in the virginal green of leafing trees; in the warbling of young birds; and in the laughter of children. A tiny girl with smiling brown eyes picked violets for me. A small boy came running up with a baby lamb for me to admire. Soon, a heavy of youngsters — and the lamb — were escorting me to Fiesole. Ahead, nestling in the blue hills, I could see the town's coral-roofed houses clustered about an old church of simple but exquisite line.

I paused in admiration and as I did, a merry-faced young priest looked down from the belfry. He spoke no English, I no Italian but, finally, he was inviting the children, the lamb and me, to his bell-fry while he rang the vesper bells.

Through a narrow door and up the narrow, winding stone steps we went. As I reached the top of the hill the priest beamed, then, swinging with all his might on the bell ropes, triumphantly his bells rang out not a gloomy Lenten dirge but a joyous welcome to spring. For the first time I appreciated the coming of spring as the definition of Lent. I knew why my host wanted me to take the walk to Fiesole.

Now, whenever Lent comes around, I think of Fiesole, its children, the little lamb, and priest, and feel with them, that Lent is a time to be happy!

Leachville's Lions Capture Arkansas Title

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Leachville's Lions won the Arkansas Class AAA-AA basketball tournament Saturday night by defeating Cinderella team Forrest City in the final game, 66-60.

Leachville had been seeded four after winning the Region 2AA title. Forrest City was unranked after finishing third in 2AA. But the Mustangs came on with a roar, upsetting top-seeded North Little Rock in the first round, beating Jonesboro and third-ranked Little Rock Catholic.

Forrest City's Donnie Kessinger, a 6-1 do-everything man, scored 26 points to further increase his tournament scoring record. He hit 33 against North Little Rock, 42 against Jonesboro and 24 against Catholic High for a total of 125. Tommy Boyer of Fort Smith set the record last year with 75. He also held the single game record of 32. Kessinger cracked that twice.

Fort Smith had won the tournament in the two previous years of its existence. It was created in 1958 as the nearest thing to a bona fide state tournament Arkansas has had. Class A and B schools still hold their own meets.

Little Don Shatley scored 26 points for Leachville and Ronnie Bridges hit 16. The Lions opened up a 12-point lead as early as the second quarter and a furious late rally by Forrest City fell far short.

May Keep New Orleans in Southern

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — An unidentified Philadelphia man today was reported connected with a last minute attempt to keep New Orleans in the Southern Assn. Directors of the league were called to a special meeting here tomorrow to discuss the Pelican situation. The Pels have given no indication they will be able to field a baseball team by April 16, date for the Class AA season opener.

Pel president Carl Goldenberg said he and former president Jack DePoe and Mayor Del. Lessee Morrison had been in touch with the Philadelphia who was reported interested in a Southern Assn. franchise.

Goldenberg said he planned to meet with Morrison today to talk over the situation.

Loop president Charlie Hurlb, who called the directors' meeting, said that if the Pels can't play this season, he would try to put the franchise in another city. Little Rock, which transferred its franchise to Shreveport, has been reported interested in rejoining the league.

"We're not interested in Little

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Rookie Wynn Hawkins, fighting for a spot on the Cleveland Indians' pitching staff, is off to a rough start.

57th Bowling Congress Has Time to Run

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The 57th American Bowling Congress championships have 10 weeks more to go, but this week may be the big one. Three of the nation's top teams, including the defending champs, will roll, and Ed Lubanski, 1959 singles and all-events titlist, takes to the hardwood.

Lubanski is captain of Pfeiffer Beers of Detroit, the team that set an all-time ABC record of 3243 in winning last year's championships. And individually, Lubanski set an all-time record of 2116 in the all events and won the singles with 764.

Delegation Costly

LONDON (AP) — The Dalai Lama's three-man delegation to the United Nations and their American lawyers have cost the Tibetan god-king about $105,000 in less than a year, a confidential adviser to the exiled ruler reports.

Improved egg production and quality are the results that keep him using AUREOMYCIN.

HE STRESSES STRESS CONTROL!

Egg producer points to improved quantity and quality as solid reasons for continuous use of Aureomycin in layer feeds.

"If you want to keep a hen actually producing up to her maximum potential, you've got to keep her healthy — and that's why I use AUREOMYCIN in my feed," reports Antone J. Popp, Westville, Ind.

Mr. Popp operates a 4000-hen unit and markets his eggs to stores and restaurants in Gary, Ind.

Controls stress

Mr. Popp says that AUREOMYCIN in the feed carries his birds through their two extreme stress periods in good condition — first, when they leave the range and go into the laying pens and, second, during the August hot weather period, at the end of the hens' productive period.

Improved uniformity

Mr. Popp continues, "Since my laying hens went on a steady ration of AUREOMYCIN about three years ago, I've noticed improved livability in replacement stock and more uniform development, with fewer stragglers, among young pullets. "When our replacement stock of pullets reaches maturity uniformly, we can substitute them for the outgoing flock all at one time and save ourselves a great deal of time and work."

Controls disease

Mr. Popp further reports, "My observation has been that when any disease does occur among them, chickens receiving a steady intake of AUREOMYCIN snap back to good health faster than chickens not receiving AUREOMYCIN. I'm convinced that AUREOMYCIN adds mightily to my flock's good health."

Good health — good quality

In conclusion Mr. Popp states, "As to egg quality improvement from healthier hens, shell texture is an important indication. That means thicker, tougher shells with less porosity to admit bacteria or permit dehydration."

What Aureomycin does

Some antibiotics knock out only limited groups or types of harmful bacteria. AUREOMYCIN, the wide-range antibiotic, protects your birds against the widest range of disease-causing bacteria. During periods of stress, the harmful bacteria are kept under control and cannot make their damaging attacks on the health of the birds.

AUREOMYCIN helps control CRD, blue comb and synovitis. No antibiotic has as yet bettered the performance of AUREOMYCIN — the first wide-range antibiotic eleven years ago — and still here today.

Consult your feed dealer

Your feed dealer can tell you, in detail, of the many advantages AUREOMYCIN offers. And he can supply your preferred layer feed containing recommended levels of AUREOMYCIN. He'll be glad to give you the benefit of his experience and knowledge. American Cyanamid Company, Agricultural Division, New York 20, N. Y. AUREOMYCIN is American Cyanamid Company's trademark for chlorotetracycline.

Memorial to Late Sen. Neuberger

Neuberger, 47, a Democrat, died Wednesday from a brain hemorrhage. He was in the last year of his first term.

U. S. Airlift to Last for Several Week

By BILL RAWLINS

FT. CAMPBELL, Ky. (AP) — Red-nosed military transport planes were transporting shivering, red-nosed troops from snow-covered United States bases to chief purpose is to see how quickly the Military Transport Service can speed battle-ready troops to the world's hot spots.

Those taking part in the joint Army-Air Force exercise include Utah National Guardsmen and Pennsylvania Reservists. Others will come from such widely separated points as the Pacific Northwest and New England. Eight thousand of the men are 101st Airborne Division of paratroopers from Fort Campbell, where the temperature was 25 degrees. Nine hours after departure, the men will be in Puerto Rico where the temperature is expected to reach the 80s.

Exercise Big Slam-Puerto Ping is one of the largest airlifts of men and equipment ever undertaken in peacetime and is designed to flex the muscles of this nation's missile-age defenses. It's chief purpose is to see how quickly the Military Transport Service can speed battle-ready troops to the world's hot spots.

Those taking part in the joint Army-Air Force exercise include Utah National Guardsmen and Pennsylvania Reservists. Others will come from such widely separated points as the Pacific Northwest and New England. The first planes took off at 12:30 a.m. and the schedule called for similar flights, each carrying 10 men with battle equipment, every half hour during most of the next two weeks. Most of the men will stay in Puerto Rico only two or three days.

The initial flights will be loaded primarily with equipment. The big lift of manpower will be Saturday.

Similar flights took off simultaneously from Ft. Bragg, N.C.; McGuire Air Force Base, N.J., and eleven other departure points.

The two-time Democratic presidential nominee is expected to discuss foreign policy issues in his University of Virginia Founders' Day address.

AND THERE WAS STORM!

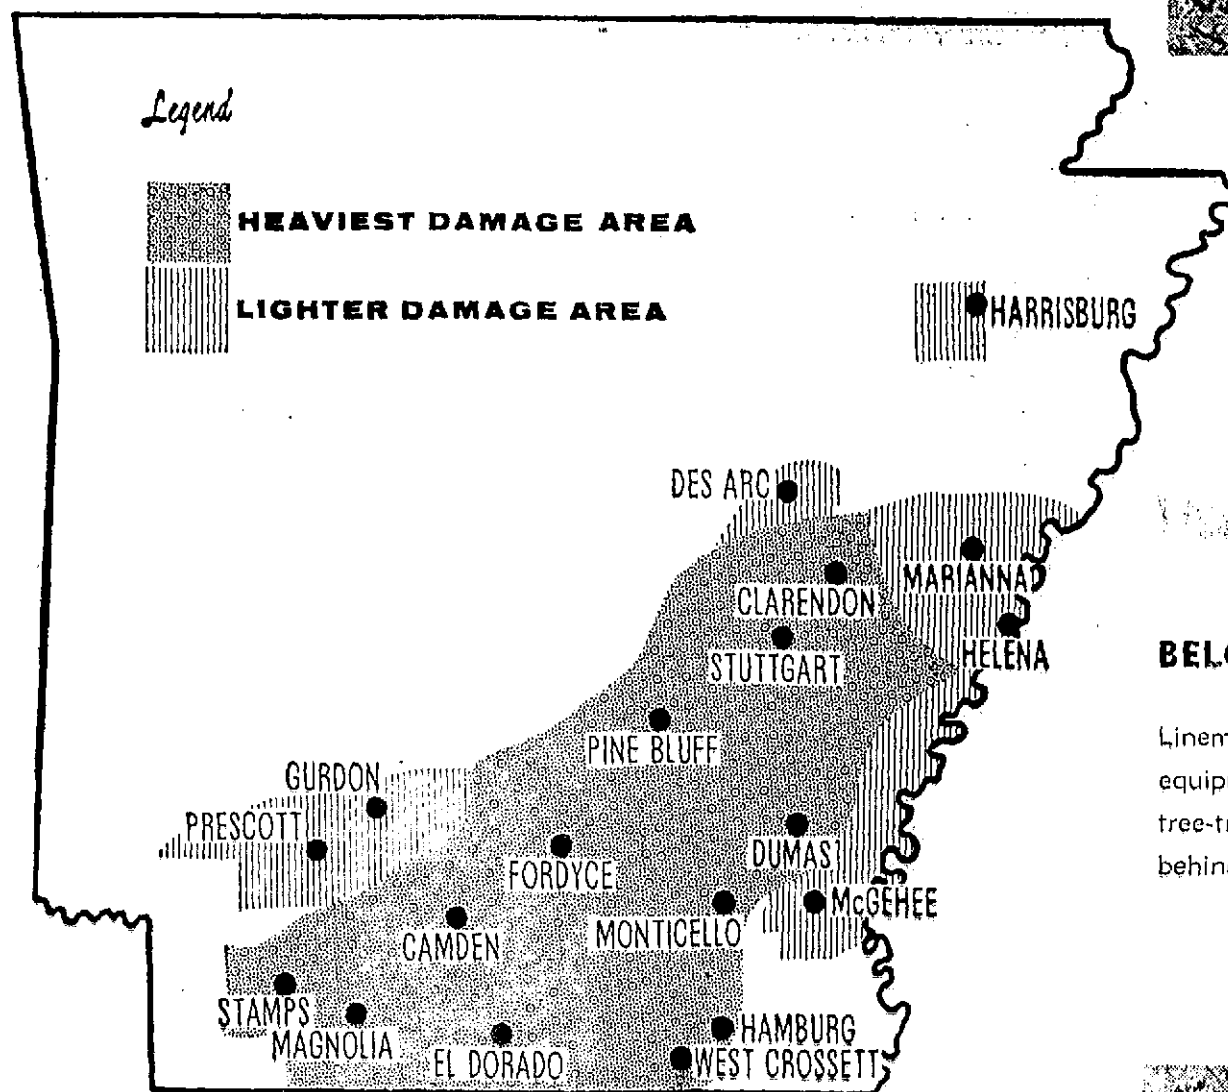

On the night of March 2, winter's most severe storm blew its force across South Arkansas, and since that night nearly 900 Arkansas Power & Light line workers, in addition to hundreds of others behind the scenes, have been at the job on around-the-clock schedules. Daily, the cost of repairs and replacements is mounting in man-hours and materials.

Our men worked long hours in freezing temperatures applying know-how and years of training to the stupendous task of rebuilding, repairing and clearing hundreds of miles of power lines which were knocked out of service. Most of the damage was caused by ice-loaded limbs and trees falling across wires.

ABOVE:

AP&L service crews clear timber from power lines in a residential area. Many extra crews were rushed to storm areas to assist in this task of restoring electric service.

One of our men lost his life on the job. Another worker was injured. All of them made sacrifices while working at one of the most hazardous jobs known.

We know you are as proud of these linemen as we are. They join with us in saying that they appreciate the understanding of our customers who were inconvenienced and caused discomfort by the loss of electric service.

This Company is always grateful to its customers for their understanding in times of disaster. We are especially indebted to the men on the lines who have performed their jobs so well in restoring electric service as soon as the task could be accomplished.

BELOW:

Linemen are hoisted in a Skymaster, special equipment used for overhead line repairs and tree-trimming operations. This crew is shown behind the ice-laden tree limbs.
